

Blended Learning...

“From my observations, I think the conversations between students and teachers are much more academically strengthened conversations.”

On the St. Charles visit, the guests toured four classrooms—sixth grade English, fourth grade science, and fourth- and fifth-grade math classes.

“It was a great visit,” Kiernan said. “They came to see blended learning in action. They were impressed by what they saw with engagement by students and teachers in classroom.”

GROUP DISCUSSION—Father Louis Jerome, pastor of St. Charles parish, watches Nicole Colacci work with students in her fifth-grade social studies class at St. Charles School during an open house for education leaders and representatives from the Richmond County Savings Foundation to see blended learning in action April 7.

ShopRite Collects Funds, Food for Catholic Charities

Msgr. Kevin Sullivan, executive director of archdiocesan Catholic Charities, received a check for $92,000 on behalf of Catholic Charities from ShopRite Supermarkets to benefit the archdiocesan-wide Feeding Our Neighbors food drive at Catholic Charities Community Services of Orange and Sullivan’s annual Celebration of Charity dinner in New Windsor March 23.

ShopRite’s 28 stores in the Hudson Valley raised the money and collected nearly 23,000 pounds of non-perishable foods from its customers, the equivalent of 390,850 meals.

“Catholic Charities and the people we serve are incredibly fortunate to have the generous support of ShopRite and their customers,” Msgr. Sullivan said in a statement. “ShopRite believes in the value of being a good corporate citizen and community partner because they live here, too.”

“The donations they make to Feeding Our Neighbors come at a time when food pantries are struggling to keep their shelves stocked and clients fed. Both the food collected and the funds raised will go a long way in feeding our hungry neighbors.”

ShopRite has collected $310,000 and nearly 47,000 pounds of nonperishable foods, the equivalent of nearly 1.3 million meals, for the campaign in three years of participation.
