

Retired Archbishop Niederauer of San Francisco

Retired Archbishop George H. Niederauer of San Francisco, a longtime English professor and 11-year bishop of Salt Lake City, died May 2. He was 80.

The eighth archbishop of San Francisco, Archbishop Niederauer succeeded seminary classmate and boyhood friend Cardinal William J. Levada, who was appointed by Pope Benedict XVI as prefect for the Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith in 2005. Archbishop Niederauer served in San Francisco, 2006-2012.

Born in Los Angeles, he attended Stanford University for one year before he entered St. John's Seminary in Camarillo, Calif. He was ordained to the priesthood in 1962 for the Los Angeles Archdiocese.

He earned a doctorate in English from the University of Southern Cali-ornia in 1966, and spent 27 years as English professor, spiritual director, theology teacher and rector at St. John's Seminary and at Mount St. Mary's College in Los Angeles before his 1994 appointment by St. John Paul II as bishop of Salt Lake City.

Coming to San Francisco, Archbishop Niederauer left behind a Utah diocese in an area heavily influenced by the traditional values of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints to grapple with a number of controversial issues. In 2008, he supported California Proposition 8, which declared marriage as a union between one man and one woman. The proposition passed, although it was later overturned by the U.S. Supreme Court. The San Francisco Chronicle reported at the time that a Latter-day Saints official credited Archbishop Niederauer's outreach in support of the proposition with a commitment to grass-roots campaigning and $20 million.

In 2006, he closed the archdiocese's 99-year-old Catholic Charities adoption service, and in 2008 severed ties with a contracted adoption agency after Cardinal Levada at the Vatican directed an end to all adoptions by same-sex couples.

Archbishop Niederauer also defended religious freedom, opposing a proposed ban on circumcision by the Board of Supervisors, and actively supported immigrant rights.

He served as the chairman of the U.S. Conference of Catholic Bishops' Committee on Communication, and as a member of the Pontifical Council for Social Communications.

A Funeral Mass was to be offered May 12 at St. Mary's Cathedral in San Francisco. —CNS
